Finish High School, Boys Are Warned

Hope Star entertained newspaper carriers of all dailies circulating in the Hope trade area with its fourth annual Christmas banquet last Friday night in the main dining room of Diamond Cafeteria.

Ordinarily The Star has a speaker from outside its organization to address the boys but those approached this year asked to be excused because of the press of holiday events; therefore the assignment fell to A. H. Washburn, editor-publisher. Attending the boys' dinner were three others from the newspaper staff: C. M. Rogers, Jr., circulation manager; Miss Valdene Tonnemaker, circulation bookkeeper; and Mrs. Dexter Bailey, general bookkeeper.

Mr. Rogers told the boys the average community regards newspaper carriers as an exceptional group, in which dependability and knowledge of sound business practices are common virtues, and in which juvenile delinquency is practically unknown. To honor carriers as a class — regardless of what paper they circulate — The Star therefore invites all boys in the trade territory to be its guests at Christmas-time, he said.

Editor's Speech

Washburn addressed his remarks to the stage in a boy's life just beyond the carrier age. He said:

"As you approach 16 you may, for several reasons, be tempted to quit high school. My warning is: Don't do it. College is optional — but a high school diploma is a must."

"The basic education ends at high school level. But it is the minimum. You must have it if you expect to compete on even terms with the rank and file and keep off the welfare rolls. Day by day the number of jobs open to the unschooled boy or girl is shrinking. There are no more elevator jobs; elevators are automatic. Employment is declining in service stations, as automatic machines invade the big cities to wash cars without hand labor; and vending machines everywhere are cutting down the job openings that used to exist for delivery drivers."

"In self-defense every boy or girl worth their salt is bound to get as full an education as possible. For all of us there is a certain that finally comes down, barring further advance toward the goal of our dreams — but don't let it happen to you in your teens: That's being disloyal to your family and yourself. You're whipped at the very beginning of your life."

Must Pass in School

"Of all the things I am proudest of in my 40 years as a newspaper man there is the fact that never have I let either a newspaper carrier or a part-time high school employee quit school and keep on working for me. The temptation is there, of course — to acquire young and cheap help, thrown in our lap by default of study. But on the other hand there is the eternal obligation of the old to the young — to see that youngsters are correctly advised, and 'fired' if they ignore the word that's been passed to them."

"Usually the boy who drops out of school at 16 is a lost dog. Over 40 years I can think of but one exception—a boy I 'fired' from the El Dorado Daily News in the 1920's, but who came back and made a success of himself."

"He was Johnny Erp, an El Dorado high school student who worked as a part-time sports writer for the El Dorado morning paper. Always I have had an understanding with the high schools that they would warn us any time a part-time worker was flunking a subject, we in turn would warn the boy — and if he flunked out of school his job was automatically terminated."

Boy Who Was 'Fired'

"I had a notice from El Dorado High School that Johnny was failing in some subject. He got his warning from me in person. Next month a second warning came — and the third month he flunked out, and was 'fired' from the newspaper."

"A grown man never forgets such a painful experience. Last time I saw Johnny Erp he was out of school and posting baseball scores in an El Dorado bowling alley—and I figured that was just another young life gone down the drain — particularly painful because Johnny was full of enthusiasm and hard work. But I was mistaken. Johnny didn't go down the drain—he fought back, and won."

Holiday Death Toll Is Mounting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	304
Fires	44
Miscellaneous	57
Total	385

The nation's traffic death toll passed the 300 mark in the first 2½ days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below pre-holiday estimates by safety experts.

"If the present trend continues this will be the safest Christmas holiday on record," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

The council, based on previous holidays and the record traffic toll for the past year, had estimated 650 to 750 deaths on the highways during the long holiday period.

"If the trend holds," Pyle said, "the final toll could be as low as 550."

The count, which started at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Christmas, showed 304 traffic deaths throughout the nation. Fires had killed 44 persons and 57 others had lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an over-all total of 385.

Pyle said that the traffic toll was 100 lower than for the corresponding period for the Christmas holiday last year. In last year's three-day Christmas observance, traffic deaths totaled 524.

Stormy and cold weather in sections of the eastern half of the country, the council said, may have resulted in fewer cars on the highways and more careful driving. More snow also was in prospect for the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions today and on Christmas. Driving conditions were hazardous in some areas.

The record traffic toll for any holiday is 506, which was set in the four-day Christmas period of 1956. The lowest for a four-day Christmas holiday since World War II was 535 in 1951.

Cecil Johnson, 59, Printer, Dies at Emmet

Cecil Clyde Johnson, aged 59, a lifelong printer, died yesterday at his home at Emmet. He operated a job plant here many years.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Johnson, two brothers, William R. Johnson of Malvern, Archie Johnson of Prescott, three sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Haynie of Warren, Mrs. Faye Cobb of Little Rock and Mrs. Hess Gordon of Arkadelphia.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel by the Dr. L. T. Lawrence. Burial will be in Shell Cemetery at Emmet.

Active pallbearers: George Hosmer, Loren Riley, Paul Buchanan, Ural Cloud, Ralph Gordon and Dr. A. W. Hudson.

Hope in 1929, and not long afterward I noted that some sports dispatches on the Hearst wire — then International News Service, now part of United Press International — were appearing from Russellville Tech with Johnny Erp's signature. I learned that Johnny had gone back to finish school at El Dorado, and was working his way through college.

"Fifteen years or so later Lloyd Spencer, Hope bank president, told me that while he was in Chicago he was taken on a tour of a television station. Top man of the show — the producer — walked over and asked Mr. Spencer: 'The name is Erp — Johnny Erp. Do you know my friend Alex Washburn in Hope? Give him a message. Erp is doing all right.'"

"I don't know of a better story to tell you at Christmas-time — the story of a boy who was lost, but found himself."

"But the warning still stands. Don't get lost at 16 and quit school and become a bum. You must likely aren't a Johnny Erp — one in a thousand!"

Dockmen on Strike, Tie Up Shipping

By BESNIE GOULD

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by longshoremen—the dock workers who load and unload ship cargoes and baggage—has tied up shipping operations all along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

President Kennedy's plea to postpone the walkout for 90 days went unheeded.

Some 81,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), by estimate of the union's president, are involved in the strike, affecting major ports from Searsport, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

The walkout began promptly at 5 p.m., Sunday, the very minute an 80-day federal court strike injunction against the ILA expired.

The government's acting on Kennedy's order, obtained the injunction early last October to give the longshoremen 10 days to cool off under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The injunction was issued after the ILA pulled a four-day strike.

Key issue is the ship owners' demand that longshoremen cut their work gangs from 20 to 17 men, saying a larger number is "feather-bedding." The ILA says it will not "negotiate our men out of business."

As soon as the current walkout began, pickets appeared at such ports as New York; Newark, N.J.; Houston, Tex.; and Lake Charles, La.

No picket lines were planned for some ports, including Mobile, Ala., and Providence, R.I., ILA spokesmen said. One said that Philadelphia, Trenton, N.J., and Dillingham, Del., docks will not be picketed in full force until after Christmas.

Loading and unloading of ships moved at a frenzied pace Sunday in an effort to get the vessels out of their way before the strike deadline.

One dockworker remarked that the Hudson River "looked like the Jersey Turnpike" as a stream of ships—the Coast Guard put the number at 55, unusually high for a Sunday-pull to sea from New York.

How long will the strike last? "Who knows?" said David Alston, an ILA international vice president and boss of 2,000 longshoremen at Hampton Roads, Va. "We've just now pulled the plug out of the barrel."

Castro's Food Fit for Pigs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—What kind of food did Fidel Castro give his Bay of Pigs prisoners?

"It was not fit for pigs," said Tulio Diaz, 22, one of the returning prisoners said Sunday night.

"For breakfast we usually had one cup of very bad alleged coffee and a slice of bread."

"The next two meals usually consisted of one or two of the following, macaroni with a watery flour sauce; a Chinese grain that we called 'fatherland or death' which tasted like dirt and squash."

A former photographer in Havana Diaz was asked what he planned to do in the future.

"Eat," he answered.

22 Deaths Around Arkansas

A murder-suicide and an electrocution took the lives of three persons Sunday and put Arkansas' violent death toll for the week ended midnight Sunday at 22.

Willie Ponders, 34, and his estranged wife, Avan 33, were found dead at their house in Jacksonville Sunday.

Police said Ponders had gone to the house to take their oldest son to church and began arguing with his wife. He whipped out a .22-caliber revolver and killed his wife, then himself, police said.

Dr. Howard A. Dishongh, Pulaski County Coroner, said it was murder and suicide. The Ponders had three children, aged 14, 10 and 7.

At Holub's Crossing, nine miles east of Marianna, Elmus Ray Nicholas, 22, of Westover, was electrocuted Sunday when he touched a live wire above state Highway 121.

Nicholas was standing on top of a house which he was moving. Witnesses said he lifted two wires to let the house pass beneath them and apparently one of the wires was live.

Also during the week 12 persons died in traffic mishaps, three died of burns, two were smothered, one other was shot to death and one was stabbed to death.

SANTA'S HELPER SAYS

SHOPPING DAY TO CHRISTMAS

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL OF YOU!

They Ask Santa for Everything

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—"Dear Santa Claus: I am 8 years old and I have tried to be a good boy all year long. For Christmas I would like you to bring me—"

So runs a letter typical of those the Peekskill Evening Star has been printing by the column for three weeks. If the youngsters up the Hudson don't find what they want under their trees Tuesday, it won't be the newspaper's fault.

It could be the jolly old elf himself will slip up. Unless he has been monitoring television on a North Pole channel he could be completely baffled by the steady parade of well-advertised toy names—in a variety of spellings—from his hopeful correspondents.

Whatever trouble, if any, the ad-oriented requests give him, Santa must be pleased by the children's deep concern with the virtuous life. Most say flatly they've been good all year—or at least have tried to be.

Frankest statement on the subject comes from a group of four: "We've tried to be good boys and girls all year, especially the last couple of days (ever since we saw you in the store)."

Along with being little paragons in deportment, the youngsters are kind, real kind.

Some in the junior set are born diplomats. Most sign off with "love," but one small boy ends with an irresistibly chummy "your palm." An 8-year-old girl starts off on a gracious note: "Dear Santa: How are you and Mrs. Claus?"

Jury Tampering Charged in Hoffa Mistrial

By GAVIN SCOTT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Justice Department has failed again—for the fourth time in five years—to put James R. Hoffa behind bars.

The $1-million conspiracy trial of the Teamsters Union president wound up with a hung jury Sunday. After the judge declared a mistrial, several jurors said the vote was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Hoffa was accused of conspiring with a Michigan cardhauling firm to violate the Taft-Hartley Act's ban against payoffs from employers to union officials. The couple began Oct. 22.

As he released the jurors, U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller ordered a thorough investigation into heretofore secret FBI testimony that two Hoffa associates tampered with or tried to influence two members of the jury.

The two jurors were replaced by alternates earlier this month.

The jury received the case Friday and deliberated 17 hours, including three hours Sunday. Upon receiving the jury's fourth report that it was hopelessly deadlocked the judge dismissed the panel.

"I dislike very much the idea of not having the case resolved one way or the other after all of this labor and effort. However, there comes a time when, if the members of the jury cannot agree, they cannot agree, and that is it," Judge Miller said.

Hoffa said he was disappointed he wasn't acquitted but gratified he wasn't convicted.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

In the five years since he became president of the 1.5-million member Teamsters Union Hoffa has spent much of his time in legal scraps with the federal government.

The stocky labor boss was acquitted by a Washington, D.C., jury in 1957 for conspiring to bribe a McClellan committee investigator. Later that year he was indicted in New York on wiretap conspiracy charges. The first trial ended in a hung jury. Hoffa was acquitted on a retrial the next year.

Hoffa charged the Kennedy administration, particularly Atty. Gen. Kennedy, was out to get him. Before departing a chartered plane for Detroit, Hoffa fired a parting shot.

"Verdicts by the attorney general must cease," he said. "We have a right to believe that every man should be treated equally."

Neither Hoffa nor Neal would comment on the judge's announcement that he was impeaching a special grand jury to investigate the alleged jury tampering. The judge unsealed the transcripts of two secret court sessions which preceded the dismissals from the jury of Mrs. James Paschal of Hoochbury and Gratin Fields of Nashville.

Prisoner Airlift From Cuba Brings Joyful Reunions

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Operation Ransom roared back into action this Christmas Eve, its mission to compete an airlift of 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions in the United States.

Six planes were assigned to a full-speed ahead windup of the job begun Sunday. The first mercy plane lifted from San Antonio de Los Banos military airport at 9:25 a.m., with more than a hundred survivors of the fabled Bay of Pigs invasion of April 1961.

Officials hoped the job of shutting all the rest of the captives would be completed early in the day. The airlift brought 426 men into Homestead Air Force Base in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its human-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DC's supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom lane loads of men exchanged by Fidel Castro's regime for $53 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

The first plane landed at 6:06 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

By 6:55, the fourth plane had arrived, bringing the total number delivered to 426.

Then the flights seemed to be suspended, although officials in Miami said they could not explain it. Anxious relatives who had waited since early morning until long past midnight slowly began to drift out, in deep disappointment, from the Dinner Key Auditorium reception center.

Some simply dropped from exhaustion in their chairs.

Crowds waiting for the prisoners since early Sunday morning had gone through eight hours of tense, fear-laden vigil before a firm announcement was made that the first liberation aircraft had taken off from San Antonio de Los Banos military air base, 25 miles southwest of Havana.

The men were processed after landing at Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles from Miami, fed a hearty roast beef dinner and then brought by bus to the auditorium in Miami. For hours there after the building was seep by gales of emotion.

Young fathers showered kisses on infant children whom they had never seen. Gaunt veterans of fighting in the swamps of Cuba wept tears of joy. Wives plunged through the milling crowds to throw themselves into the arms of husbands they had not seen since Brigade 2506 departed for the ill-fated adventure at the Bay of Pigs.

Complete strangers grabbed the liberated invaders and clasped them in "abraos," the peculiarly Latin back-slapping, bear-hugging embraces.

Ten thousand wives, sweethearts and kinfolk spent most of Sunday night cheering and crying with happiness as buses discharged their young men at the doors of the auditorium.

Sleet, Snow, Rain Pushes Into Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, sleet and snow pushed into Arkansas today in the wake of a weekend cold front that gave promise of a White Christmas for some parts of the state.

At the same time, rain combined with sleet and snow, was expected to make driving hazardous for holiday travelers on the state's highways.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said snow was expected to fall in the north and south portions early today and in the northeast late today. The snow was expected to change to rain and sleet tonight.

Snow was reported this morning in Pine Bluff, Texarkana, Hot Springs, Little Rock and Benton before daybreak. Much of it was sticking to the ground.

The snow spread to the Memphis area a little later and eventually was expected to reach the bootheel portion of Missouri.

The weather picture is not expected to change for Christmas Day. The Weather Bureau said not quite as much snow would fall but that rain and sleet would continue to fall around the state.

The system which carries the rain, snow and sleet covers most of the Mid-South. Snow has been reported in Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama.

Frigid temperatures around Arkansas will help the mixture gain a foothold in the state. Today's highs are forecast between 30 and 40. Tonight's temperatures are expected to drop to 20 in the north and hover in the mid 30s in the south.

Sunday's high temperatures ranged from the low 40s to the mid 50s. Overnight lows generally were in the 30s.

Experiment Station report for 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. Monday High 51, Low 29, rain and sleet, total precipitation .23 of an inch.

Total 1962 rainfall through November, 47.20; during the same period last year, 51.19 inches.

Field Goal Wins Sudden Death Playoff

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — A slight drizzle kicked off Tommy Brock's helmet. The clock showed 2 minutes, 54 seconds of the second sudden death overtime period. The opposing lines tensed as the ball was snapped back. Len Dawson put the ball down on the 25-yard line stripe.
Brock kicked and the Dallas Texans were the champions of the American Football League with a 20-17 decision over Houston's two-time titlist in the longest game in professional football history.
The game turned out to be a three-part production. Dallas won the first half 17-0. Houston took the second half by the game score. Then they went to the finale before an overflow crowd of 37,901 and a national television audience.
Bill Hull intercepted a George Blanda pass after the Oilers had moved to the 35. Hull lugged it back 23 yards. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes gained 10. Spikes rambled 19 to the Houston 19 and the Texans were in range. Brock then booted the winner.
Brock's three-pointer was worth a winning share of $2,251.00 for each Texan. Each member of the Oilers gets $1,471.00. Both figures are AFL records.

"I'm sure we can help," soothed the postmaster. "That's a federal offense. Have you any idea who is sending you these letters?"

The Evolution of Santa Claus...

Prototype of Santa Claus was St. Nicholas of Myra, famous for his generosity to the poor.

Clement Moore's 1822 poem gave "the jolly old elf" permanent possession of reindeer, sleigh, etc.

Rugged Santa of 1869 was reminiscent of Dickens' Spirit of Christmas Present.

Cartoonist Thomas Nast did much to influence our ideas of Santa Claus. This is how he looked in 1879.

MAN ON THE SKEWBALD MARE

By Nelson C. Nye

XXV
Rafe dropped back and let him have his way. Like Brownwater had said, a feller had to trust someone. When things started coming apart at the seams it was easy to imagine every gent and his uncle had a knife out for you.
He rubbed some warmth into his fist and took hold of his pistol, determined if this was a trap to make it cost somebody dear. With the other, stiffer hand he got the chinstrapped hat back into his head, hauling down the brim to put his cheeks in deeper shadow. There wasn't much else he could do but keep his eyes peeled.
"Rafe's guide, without turning his head, said abruptly: "Duke's had the running' of this spread for two years. He's aimin' to have it lock, stock and barrel. Ain't nothin' he won't do except melbe kill the Old Man outright, and, if things gets rough, he could do that, too."
Worst of it was, this guy was probably right. Duke, in the past, had never let anything stand in the way when it came to something he figured he wanted. He was ungodly mean and revengeful. He might do a heap of backing and filling but there was also, deep in the hateful twisted core of him, a frightening persistence once he'd made up his mind. He hadn't no more scruples than a cocked pistol.
Before he did anything else, Rafe guessed, he had better get Luce and his dad away from here.
When he looked up again they were coming into the bare open of the yard, if you could call this one. The grim fortresslike house, with its windowless outside walls, its parapets and ramparts, loomed dark and deserted.
The walking hoofs of their horses sounded loud to Rafe as the clash of cymbals. But no one hailed. The tangle of pens showed bars down and empty.
Brownwater Bill, with his hat cuffed back, rode bold as you please to the great open gate and sat there, impassive, waiting for Rafe to come up. Inside he might be tore up as a stomping pen but his face anyway, in this leaden light, looked calm as a millpond. No matter which way he swung, the guy had guts. You had to give him that.

Rafe wished he could feel as sure of his own.
As he stopped his horse just back of the other a gun-hung hardware packing a rifle stepped out of the room to the right of the gate and, with a careless flap of the hand, was about to wave them on in when something about Rafe's look suddenly stiffened him.
He sucked a lungful of air, his whole face springing open. Before he could yell or get his rifle fully up Brownwater, diving from his saddle, came down on the feller like a ton of dropped meat. When Luce's beau, panting, got up off the man, Spangler's hardware was trussed hand and foot with twists of piggin string snatched from Bill's belt, mouth stuffed with shirttail, eyes looking wilder than a pulque-drunk squaw's.
"Inside — quick!" Brownwater wheezed, pawing around for his pistol.
A crack from Rafe's heel propelled his mount through the gate. Brownwater, dragging his horse, was quick to follow. As Rafe swung down the fat man, whacking his animal out of the way, hurried back to catch hold of the gate. A gun went off, that slug striking the wood not an inch from his hand.
Rafe, spinning, felt a tug at his hat as the gun spoke again. Then Rafe's own pistol coughed. Across the patio a black-bearded six-footer wheeling out of a door hole jerked half around, flung out a fist and went down.
Brownwater, slamming shut the massive gate, screamed a bar through the slots and let out a gusty "Whew!" as old Bender appeared, and Luce—white-cheeked and frantic—came flying to fling himself into Bill's arms.
"There, there," Brownwater mumbled, looking sheepish and tickled, trying awkwardly to pat her as he would a frightened filly. "Nothin' to git your wind up over..."
She cried indignantly: "You might have been killed!"

Rafe, starting toward his father, never heard another word. One foot up and one foot down, he stopped in midstride, all the breath knocked out of him.
Flabbergasted, jaw flopping, Rafe stared like a snake had suddenly reared in his path. He let the lifted foot down with a "Good gosh almighty!"
A delicious, humorously infectious laugh tumbled out of Bunny Pike as she watched his scandalized stare take in her man's hickory shirt and the belted, washed-faded, brush snagged trousers that so fondly clung to her lithe, shapely legs. "Is that all you can dig up to say, Rafe?"
Rafe gulped, red-faced, and his eyes swiveled away; and old Bender said in patient perplexity "Is that you, Duke? What is Luce laughing at?"
Rafe didn't know if he were more upset by her brazen appearance or the gall of her presence. He was mad clear through.
XXVI
A clatter of hoofs broke across his harsh thoughts and Bender said with some asperity: "Will somebody tell me what's goin' on?"
Brownwater, climbing down off the gate, muttered, "Cook's pulled out," and the old man's staring eyes flopped around like a couple of hounds that had overshot the trail. "He's gone to tell Duke and Spangler," Luce said, again catching hold of Brownwater's arm.
Bender's eyes found her face and Bunny, speaking out when nobody else would, told him bluntly: "They've been off chasing your hair—your son Rafe."
The craggy head came around in a wild, lost look, the groping eyes trying to find her. Ineffably sad he said, "ou're mistaken Miss. Rafe was killed in the War..."
"That's what they want you to think! Rafe is back from the war. They've been out there all night trying to catch him and kill him—it's what I came here to tell you. But Luce was afraid. Duke said if she crossed him he'd turn her over to Spangler. Ask Brownwater there. He'll tell you! They intend for Duke to come into this property..."
"Stop!" Bender's voice was the squawk of an eagle. The blind eyes glared fierce. "Is there nothing you Yankees won't do! Chilton claiming I've mortgaged this place on Pikes as my son. I told your father when he came here the first time Rafe was killed in the war..."
"But he wasn't! He's here Not 10 steps away from you—say something, Rafe!"
Rafe licked dry lips. "That's right, Pa. I'm here."
For an agony of time Bender stood as unmoving as a stone. It got so quiet in the courtyard if you had closed your eyes you'd have sworn the place was empty.
The sun's lifting face yellowly brightened the west wall and the chirping of birds came sweet and clear, yet no one moved. The trembling lips of the patriarch, firming, cried: "That's the voice of the one who was out here before!"
"Certainly, Rafe," Bunny said. "Don't you know your son's voice?"
"Be still," Bender said, his tone

The government offered 29 witnesses and 276 exhibits for its efforts to show Hoffa accepted concealed payments from Commercial Carriers, Inc., of Detroit to the Government, said the payoff was made through Test Steel Corp., a truck leasing business it said Commercial Carriers set up and operated for Hoffa's benefit. Hoffa denied accepting any payoff from Commercial Carriers and said Test Fleet belonged to his wife, not him.

Ole Miss Is Given Edge Over Porkers

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mississippi has the edge—just a slim one—over Arkansas statistically, but Rebel Coach Johnny Vaught says you can toss the figures out the window when the two teams clash in the Sugar Bowl.

"I look for this one to be our toughest bowl game," Vaught said. The tactician Texan has taken the Rebels to 10 bowls in the past and won six of the post-season clashes.

Looking at total offense figures of the 119 major colleges for the regular 1962 football campaign, you might get the idea that the 1963 Sugar Bowl will be an open-throttle game.

Mississippi, in rolling to its first unbeaten season in the school's history ranked fourth in the nation on total offense. In nine games, the Rebels accumulated 3,276 yards for a 364 yard per game clip.

Arkansas, which lost one game in 10 starts, wound up seventh on total offense with a total of 3,570 yards—or a 357 average.

The Razorbacks—despite the aerial accuracy of quarterback Billy Moore—preferred the ground and finished 11th in rushing offense, one notch above Ole Miss. The Porkers ground out the yardage at a 241.2 clip while the Rebels poured it on at an average of 238.7 yards.

Arkansas ranked fifth nationally, in scoring, averaging 28.6 points per game. Mississippi was 13th, scoring an average of 25.5 points each game.

But when you consider the defensive statistics, you can see why the professional oddsmakers pick Ole Miss by one touchdown.

The Rebels were the stingiest club in the nation when it came to yielding yardage. They allowed their nine foes 142.2 yards per game and only 40 points.

On the other hand, Arkansas ranked 15th in total defense—yielding 2,001 yards to its 10 opponents.

"Don't look at those statistics," Vaught said. "Arkansas is quicker and faster than any team we've encountered this season. They're more versatile on offense and in Billy Moore they have quarterback with outstanding optional ability."

A seel-out crowd of 83,000 is expected for the Jan. 1 clash. The game will be nationally televised (ABC, 1 p.m. CST).

Santa Claus on His Way at Lona Last

EDITOR'S NOTE—"Will Santa Claus really come to our house?" That is the most anxious question in America today. It is answered in the following column, written for parents to read aloud to their children. Since its first appearance in 1948, it has become a scrapbook favorite in many homes.

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last.

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green—the "go-ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lines in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying hayrack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall out and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Donder to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh. We have to pull it."

Fans Comparing Quarterbacks

LITTLE ROCK (TP)—With Arkansas meeting Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl to New Orleans on Jan. 1, fans are tending to compare the quarterbacks of the two great teams.

Both Billy Moore of Arkansas and Glynn Griffing of Ole Miss were key men in their teams.

Both Billy Moore of Arkansas and Glynn Griffing of Ole Miss were key men in their teams' hard-charging offenses. For the record, here's a look at their accomplishments this season:

Moore, 5-foot-10, 178-pounds, hit 51 of 91 passes for 673 yards and five touchdowns, ran for 589 yards in 131 carries.

Griffing, 6-foot-1, 200 - pounds, connected on 72 of 122 aerials for 882 yards and 11 touchdowns, ran for 277 yards.

South Wins Thriller in Shrine Game

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"This is the biggest thrill of my life—being the first of my race to play for the South," said Willie Richardson before his annual North-South football game. "I have a greater desire to play well in this game than in any other in my life."

The Negro star from Little Jackson State of Mississippi capped a brilliant performance in the all-star contest on a 80-yard touchdown pass with 37 seconds remaining that carried the South to a 15-14 triumph over the North last Saturday.

In the other post-season collegiate classics on a three-game program, Bill Tobin raced 77 yards for a touchdown as Missouri upset Georgia Tech 14-10 in the Bluebonnet Bowl and Joe Lapesky scored four touchdowns in Houston's 49-21 rout of Miami of Ohio in the Tangerine Bowl.

The Orange Bowl in Miami was Richardson's stage as he broke the South's color line and twice crossed the goal line. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Little All-America selection joined Florida A&M's Bob Paramore as the first Negroes to be picked for the quad from Dixie.

Richardson was voted the South's most valuable player. Paramore added another laurel for his race by winning the Sportsmanship Award for a fine running performance despite a bad ankle.

At Houston, Missouri of the Big Eight Conference and Georgia Tech of the Southeastern were locked in a defensive struggle until a key block by Andy Russell broke Tobin loose for his long jaunt and gave the Tigers a 14-7 edge in the third quarter.

At Orlando, Fla., it was sophomore halfback Lapasky who made the difference. He scored on runs of 3 and 4 yards, returning a punt 70 yards for another TD and wound up the high-scoring game on a 13-yard scoring pass from Billy Roland.

came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said. "Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. It'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sootie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait! Please wait!"

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

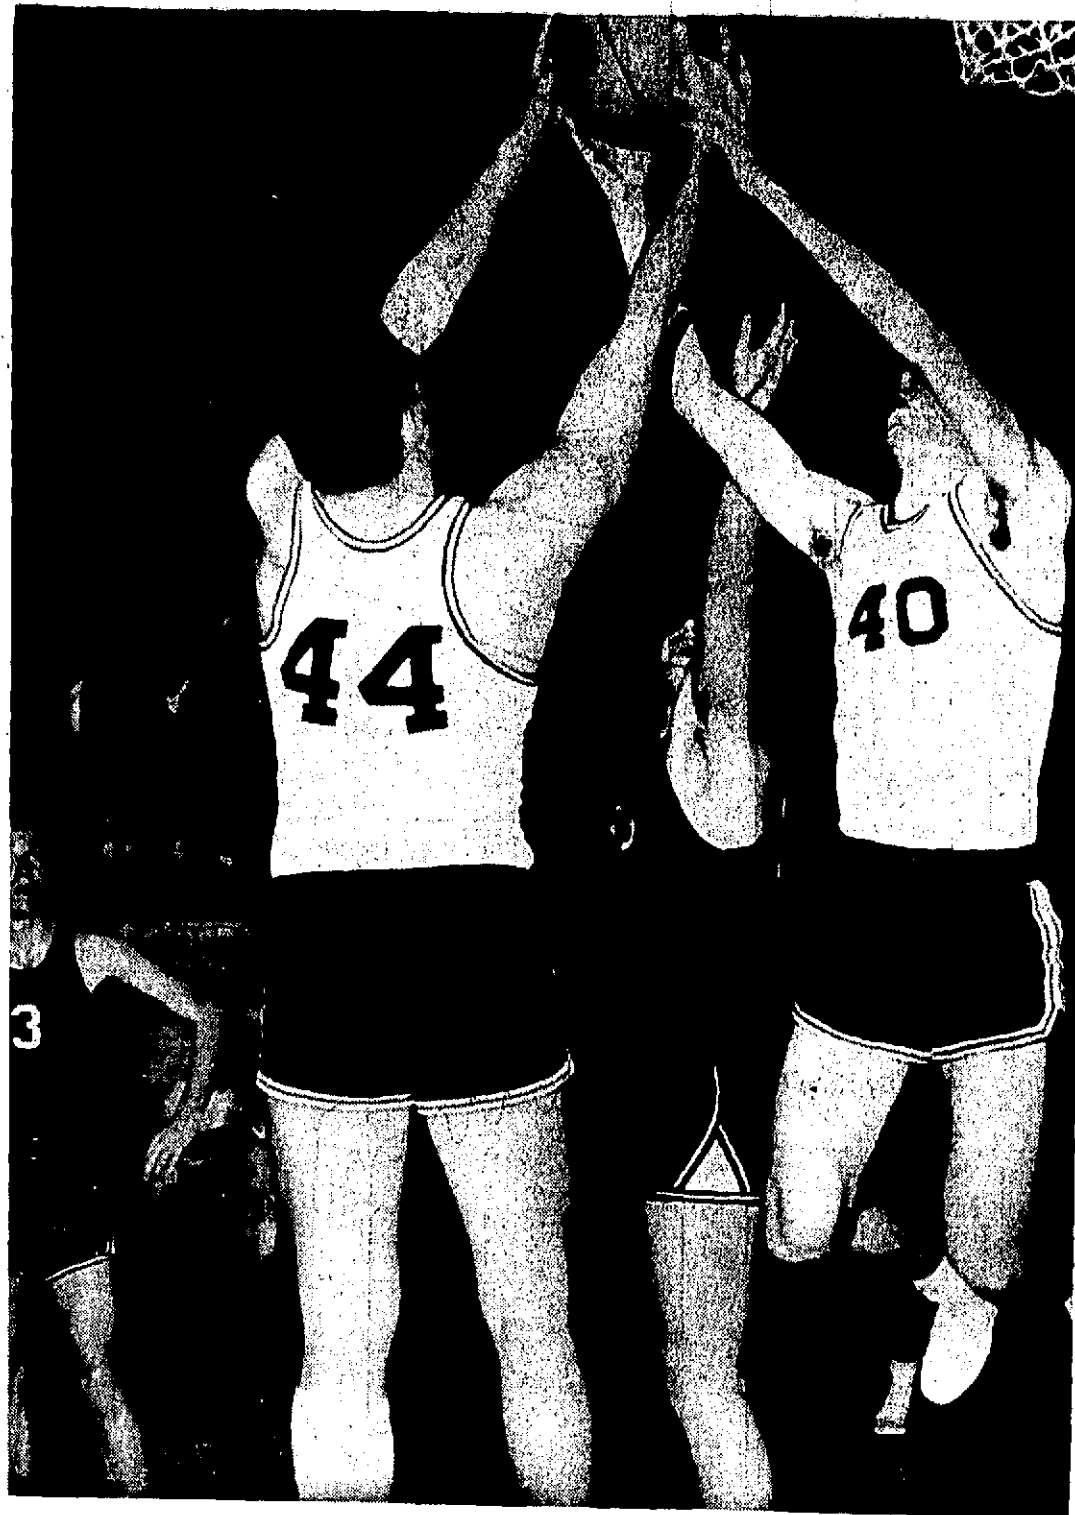

"Why, Cluny?" said Santa. "This is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-tickle kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frost air.

"Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!" he roared. "Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!"

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Ball, Ball, Who' Got That Basketball?

Size and speed paid off for the Bobcats Wednesday in downing Mena 54 to 42. Mena was the defending champs. Center Dan Jones, 44, and Forward David Porterfield, 40, claim the rebound under the basket while Bearcats Martin, 55, and Tony Zambert, 3, look on helplessly. Nashville downed Hope 70 to 58 to take their own tournament title.

Porkers Meet One of Best in Nation

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas' defensively improved Razorback basketball team will get their sternest test of the season when they battle Chicago Loyola in the 27th All-College tournament at Oklahoma City next Thursday.

Loyola is the fourth-ranked cage power in the Associated Press poll.

A year ago the Porkers took a 6-1 record into the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville, S.C., and won the tournament by whipping Clemson and Georgia Tech.

This season the Hogs have a 3-3 mark.

Why the difference in records?

A tougher schedule—which may being neutral and watching the fight but each one thinks I'm on the other's side. I've told them I was neutral.

Then I took a serious look at the argument and found a boy friend of mine had started the fight and he is wrong. I tried to be neutral. I've tried to make peace and I've tried to ignore. Nothing works. My friends mean a lot to me but so do these girls. I don't want to lose either. Should I gamble, or wait, or hat? — Helpless

FATHER FEARS LOSS OF DAUGHTER BY CHANGE OF NAME

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: In my first marriage we had a little girl whom I shall call Cathy. When Cathy was two my first wife and I divorced. Later I remarried and have been completely happy for 10 years with my wonderful second wife and three children.

About the time I remarried, my former wife married again. She and her husband have in their home his child, my child and a child of their own. The stepfather to my little daughter has been very good to her and treats her as his own.

Yesterday I went to see her; she lives far away which makes it difficult to visit her very often. She is 12 now and a lovely youngster. On this last visit she asked me if I would let her change her name to her stepfather's. He wants to adopt her. She goes by his name anyway but runs into difficulty at times when she must use her real name.

I am afraid they will not let me see her anymore if I consent to this, and feel it will be a short time before she changes her name anyway when she gets married. I love Cathy and hesitate to do this although I want to do what is best for her. I know that hearing from me and my visits disrupt their family life, and that being the only one in the family with a different name is sometimes embarrassing for her.

Shall I grant her request to be adopted by her stepfather? Is it best I stay out of her life or shall I keep contact with her? — Concerned Father.

Dear Concerned: Your plight is understandable, loving Cathy as you do. But since she herself has asked that her stepfather adopt her and give her his name, I feel you would only be alienating the child if you didn't grant her request. Your generosity in doing so might even better relations between you, your ex-wife and her husband.

As you say, she will acquire another name when she marries so that I can't see it matters too much, except for the prech in your own heart. However, no matter whatname Cathy takes, nothing can alter the fact that you are her real father.

Dear Helen: My friends are having a serious argument with a group of girls I like very much. I'm the middle man. I've tried

Hog Cagers Play Loyola in Tournament

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Several of the nation's leading college basketball teams run smack into the heavy holiday tournament schedule this week. But it's likely to be a real holiday for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats.

While six of the top ten teams are engaged in tournament competition and three others have two games booked, the Bearcats play only once. They go against Ohio University 3-3 Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola takes on Arkansas in the opening round of Oklahoma City's All-College Tourney Wednesday. Mississippi State, No. 5, meets Houston in the Sugar Bowl Tourney Friday. Colorado, No. 6, plays Kansas Wednesday in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City and 10th-ranked Seattle faces California Thursday in the Far West Classic at Portland.

West Virginia, rated seventh, and Illinois, No. 8, move into Madison Square Garden for the Holiday Festival Wednesday. The Mountaineers play Boston College while Illinois hooks up with unbeaten Pennsylvania.

Kentucky, ranked ninth, has regular games with Dartmouth and Notre Dame. Duke, No. 2, faces Princeton and Wake Forest while Ohio State No. 3, hits the road to meet Baylor and Wichita. The Bearcats had an easy time last Saturday night while rolling up their 26th consecutive triumph and eighth this season with a 72-46 conquest of Davidson.

Three top-ranked teams—Colorado, West Virginia and Seattle—were defeated.

Colorado lost to Arizona 60-52. Kentucky edged West Virginia 97-75 in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and Loyola of Chicago, unbeaten in seven games, downed Seattle 93-83.

There were other surprising developments as Notre Dame and Davidson Tech were bounced out of the undefeated ranks. Butler which had lost six of seven games, ended the Irish six-game winning streak 66-59 and Vanderbilt turned back Virginia Tech 80-72 in overtime.

Ohio State came through as expected in beating Detroit 101-66 and Illinois dumped Oklahoma 93-90. Duke and Mississippi State were idle.

In other leading games, Pennsylvania edged St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 78-77 in three overtimes; Arizona State blasted Minnesota 98-79; Stanford, unbeaten in seven games routed Texas 72-46; Wichita beat Louisville 81-63; UCLA beat Wisconsin 77-63; DePaul whipped Marquette 79-72 and unbeaten Southern California won its ninth in a row by defeating Nebraska 55-53.

In other tournament finals, Oklahoma State beat Drake 61-59 in the Long Beach, Calif., Classic, and Gonzaga downed North Texas 86-75 in the Eastern Montana Holiday event.

pay off at Oklahoma City.

The Razorbacks have gone against such top-notch foes this year as Louisiana State, Kansas, Missouri, Tulsa and Oklahoma State.

A year ago, though, opponents were averaging 72 points a game. The Razorbacks have cut that average to 62.8 points per game this season, and against the highly-touted foes in the All-College tourney Arkansas not only will need to score, but it also will have to hold down scoring by some of the nation's best-known shooters.

Found Dead

CHICAGO (AP)—Samuel Brady Jr., 31, a native of Little Rock, Ark., was found dead of natural causes in his apartment here Saturday. Brady had worked as a newsman in New Orleans and Washington and later on the public relations staff of the American Medical Association here.

But the weatherman promised more fog that made arrivals by today difficult.

Players who were on hand Thursday spent their morning with 60 youngsters whose big smiles and "H-E-L-L-O" yells nearly concealed their array of casts, crutches, braces and straps.

East-West Shrine Game Dec. 29

SAN FRANCISCO ZAP) — The East football team and the West, too, fog willing were to open practice today for their Dec. 29 Shrine game.

Fog already interfered with one aspect of the game—Thursday's visit by players to the Shriners Hospital for crippled children, for whose benefit the game is played.

Fourteen members of the 24-man West squad were unable to arrive.

"I expect to have them all on hand by the first workout," assistant coach Jim Sutherland of Washington State told Shriners at a Thursday luncheon program.

Nashville Wins Own Tourney, Licking Cats

By CARTER HARDAGE
Saturday night at Nashville the host team took its own tournament by decisively downing the Hope Bobcats 70 to 58.

High scorer for the Bobcats, played all night with a rash of foul calls, was Dan Jones with 18 points. In fact Nashville was outscored from the field but the free throws won for them. High scorer George Jones made half of his 32 points by the free toss route while Hope's high scorer, Dan Jones, fouled out in the middle of the fourth period with 18 points.

Porterfield was second for the Bobcats with 16; Early Ray Murphy made 12; McLarty 6, Russell 4, Burnett 2.

Ashdown's Pantherettes took the girl's title for the sixth straight time in 12 years with a 41 to 34 win over Prescott. Jan Alford led the winners with 19 points. Carolyn Lavender hit 20 for Prescott.

January 3, the Junior and Senior Girls and the B boys will play Guernsey there.

North-South Game May Be Dropped

By GENE FLOWDEN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There were indications today that last Saturday's North-South all-star college football game may be the last in Miami.

The 16,592 who saw the South eke out a 15-14 triumph in the last 37 seconds was the smallest crowd since Mahi Shrine switched its promotion from high school to college stars in 1948.

The $25,000 paid by the American Broadcasting Co. for television rights insured a profit but the slim crowd may spell the end. The weather was ideal by Miami standards—79 degrees under a cloudless sky at kickoff time—but there were nearly 60,000 empty seats.

Cecil Mobley, general chairman of the game, said approval of two groups will be necessary if the game is continued. Mahi Shrine trustees must vote affirmatively and the Shrine Hospital trustees also must approve.

Last March the national trustees refused permission for the game to continue under Shrine sponsorship on the theory that it was not good for the organization to be
